

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides a method for reducing and/or preventing degeneration of photoreceptors in the eye of a human caused by radiation in the visible range which comprises administering to said mammal a retinoid compound having RAR_{β} and/or RAR_{δ} -selective agonist activity.